Innovation for a new era in healthcare

American Advanced Management Group (AAMG) originated in 2013 with the opening of its pilot hospital; Central Valley Specialty Hospital, an LTCH in Modesto, California. In the 5 years since we have experienced exponential growth and expansion into both acute and post-acute facilities and services. We were the first company in California to revive a rural hospital following closure which led to the development of an innovative service model for Rural and Critical Access that offers small community hospitals an opportunity to thrive in an increasingly centralized and competitive healthcare market. Our ability to offer multiple medical specialties to these small communities through our rural clinics is just one example of our success at delivering quality, patient centered care to communities of every size. In 2018 we are opening our first college dedicated exclusively to the allied health professions most impacted by shortages. Below is a summary of our current holdings and future projects.
